TASMANIAN DEVIL EXPERIENCE

Led by our knowledgeable guides, and visiting Saffire's open-range Tasmanian devil enclosure, where they will meet some of the resident population of Tasmanian devils and observe them as they feed and interact. They will hear the story of the Tasmanian devil—the world's largest carnivorous marsupial—and the crucial effort to find a cure for Tasmanian Devil Facial Tumour Disease (DFTD)—the rare and contagious cancer that is threatening the devil's survival.

Guests also have the chance to contribute to Saffire's management and observation of the devil population by participating in a visual health inspection of the devils. They will learn how to recognise individual devils, and use direct observation and remote camera imagery to identify and check each of our resident animals.

Guests will also learn of the vital work of the Save the Tasmanian Devil Program and the critical research of the Menzies Institute for Medical Research and Professor Greg Woods. Saffire is one of the key partners in Dr Woods' quest to find a vaccine for DFTD, and guests can discover how they can be a part of the ongoing work to secure the survival of this important species.
